Mastering Motivation: The Science of Staying Driven at Work

We all have a perpetual resident on our to-do list. You may wait until the mood strikes to tackle the pesky task. Motivation, the catalyst for action and achievement, often feels elusive. But here's the scoop: you don't need to wait for motivation to strike before you act; it's a skill you can hone, nurture, and wield to your advantage.

By illuminating the inner workings of your brain's cue-desire-outcome loop, the mechanism that guides your habit formation and generates motivation, we'll show you how to create a feedback loop that keeps your motivation engine running at full throttle, no matter what challenges lie ahead.

Commit to Prevention

Practicing preventative care is your ticket to a healthier, happier future.

Taking proactive steps to protect your health adds years to your life and ensures those years are filled with vitality and well-being. Invest in your health today to enjoy a brighter and worry-free tomorrow by using October's Monthly Motivator to track your progress!

Prevention is the best medicine. Commit to at least three activities from the list below.

- Get a flu shot
- Schedule your next dentist appointment
- Schedule your next eye appointment
- Do a self-exam (skin, breast, or testicular)
- Wear sunscreen

The Transformative Power of Human Connection

Join us as we dive deep into the power of human connection. Our guest, Mary-Lyn, sheds light on the transformative perspective shift within the simple acts of reaching out to receive or offer help and the profound strength you can draw from realizing you're not alone.

We explore Togetherall, a remarkable platform that unites people from across the globe in a secure and welcoming space where they can share, connect, and provide invaluable support. Don't miss this fascinating discussion on the power of community and the shared human experience.
